DESTRUCTION OF TIMBER BRINGS INVESTIGATION

In many sections of the county forest fires during the past few months have caused heavy damage to young timber as well as older trees. In a few sections of the county where the Government owns large tracts some complaint has been made that persons who enter the land have caused the destruction of timber.

Just before the Christmas holidays, Mr. George Ryan of the Federal Bureau of Investigation visited Coffee County and made extensive investigation in connection with removal of this timber from Government-owned lands. He also investigated the forest fire hazard that has been damaging this and other tracts of timber.

So far as we have been able to learn no prosecutions will be made, but if there are those who have been guilty of starting fires or cutting timber on any lands, other than their own, it might be well for them to be more particular in the future.

Timber is scarce and taking care of timber lands and forests is very important. Proper cultivation of these lands as well as protection from fire is being strongly urged by Federal authorities. Any person who wilfully destroys or causes destruction of forest or timber land which will be needed for the future growth of the county is a criminal.

Start now to protect instead of destroying your forest and timber lands. Be satisfied at their passing.

Surviving are two sons: Cecil Mason, Walter Mason, and three daughters: Mrs. Eunice Brantley, Mrs. Mattie Comer, and Mrs. Agnes Mason.

Funeral services were held at the Elba Baptist church on Tuesday, January 23, at 10 o'clock, with Rev. J. D. Stephens officiating. Burial followed in the cemetery.

FARMERS ADVISED TO HATCH SOME CHICKS IN JANUARY

AUBURN, Ala.—John Ivey, extension poultryman, is advising that Alabama poultrymen have some of their chicks hatched in January.

"Although some of our poultrymen are well stocked with laying birds during the summer period, when eggs are in great demand and prices are satisfactory, still too large a number of them make no provision to supplement their laying flock with ready-to-lay pullets," he says.

"Since the most satisfactory price for eggs is normally to be secured from around the first of July through the summer and fall months with prices usually showing a sliding off from about the middle of December on through the spring, provisions should be made by the poultryman to have at least a fairly large proportion of his pullet flock mature and laying eggs over a reasonably good portion of this period."

"Another most important advantage of some of the chicks being hatched early is that they are brooding equipment of various types normally in use in the spring and summer months without additional overhead investment."

"Since yearling birds nearing the completion of their laying year, are in a very declining rate of egg production and since their numbers are consequently less than those originally housed in the preceding fall, a few early hatchlings will tend to equalize production over the low production period."

Alabama farmers produce enough potatoes for the entire population but a year-round supply of white potatoes is not available. The yield of white potatoes is large enough to make production possible so that with storage facilities the entire population could be supplied.

At this session and certain brooding equipment of various types normally in use in the spring and summer months without additional overhead investment.

"Since yearling birds nearing the completion of their laying year, are in a very declining rate of egg production and since their numbers are consequently less than those originally housed in the preceding fall, a few early hatchlings will tend to equalize production over the low production period."

Alabama farmers produce enough potatoes for the entire population but a year-round supply of white potatoes is not available. The yield of white potatoes is large enough to make production possible so that with storage facilities the entire population could be supplied.

FARMERS ADVISED TO HATCH SOME CHICKS IN JANUARY

"Although some of our poultrymen are well stocked with laying birds during the summer period, when eggs are in great demand and prices are satisfactory, still too large a number of them make no provision to supplement their laying flock with ready-to-lay pullets," he says.

"Since the most satisfactory price for eggs is normally to be secured from around the first of July through the summer and fall months with prices usually showing a sliding off from about the middle of December on through the spring, provisions should be made by the poultryman to have at least a fairly large proportion of his pullet flock mature and laying eggs over a reasonably good portion of this period."

"Another most important advantage of some of the chicks being hatched early is that they are brooding equipment of various types normally in use in the spring and summer months without additional overhead investment."

"Since yearling birds nearing the completion of their laying year, are in a very declining rate of egg production and since their numbers are consequently less than those originally housed in the preceding fall, a few early hatchlings will tend to equalize production over the low production period."

Alabama farmers produce enough potatoes for the entire population but a year-round supply of white potatoes is not available. The yield of white potatoes is large enough to make production possible so that with storage facilities the entire population could be supplied.

LANDSCAPING STRESSED BY F. F. A.

For the past two years the Elba Chapter, Future Farmers of America, has been working toward the time when it would be possible for its members to start landscaping homes of the boys in the chapter. They saw from the first day that landscaping was one of the greatest problems they had, and that little could be done about buying these plants when it took every penny they had to keep the family going and the children in school.

After studying for some time about the possibilities of rooting shrubs that they could use at no cost to the boys they started building hotbeds. In these beds cuttings were placed during the class period and cared for by the boys. All the plants did not live the first year and new means were looked for that would help in "retaining more plants to live, so this year, under the direction of the vocational teacher, the boys made arrangements to build a new house in which to root shrubbery. The house is ten by twelve and will hold about two thousand cuttings. This week the first two homes of F. F. A. members were landscaped from the old cuttings, at no cost to the boys. Plans are in progress to landscape many more homes this year and all of the plants will come from the F. F. A. plot.

The boys hope to be able to landscape the home of every boy who enrolls in F. F. A. work in Elba for the next few years.

FEED AND SEED STORE

Orders for March and April delivery are already being booked by poultrymen from many other counties. Local poultrymen should place their orders soon if they expect to buy Elba-Hatched Chickens.

Elba-hatched chicks have gained State-wide recognition because of the high quality breeding flocks we have in this area.

Write or see us for new literature and prayer by Mrs. Rainey.

Experts tell us that we now have one of the best arranged and organized hatcheries in the State.

FRESH FEED AND SEED

We are receiving weekly fresh supply of various farm and garden seeds and a complete line of poultry, dairy, and hog feeds. Get your seed needs before prices advance as the supply of good seed is already very limited.

Remember that we pay highest cash prices for poultry, eggs and cream. Our cream station is open every Saturday.
